FROM THE (Philad.) TRUE AMERICAN.

Mr. Bradford,

Having this day received the following MEMORIAL, drawn up by the owners, supercargoes and captains of a number of American vessels, detained by the Spaniards in South America, I send it you, with a request, that you will publish the same, and thereby oblige all concerned, as well as. Your's &c.

A. Z.

We beg leave through you, to lay before the President of the United States, an account of the injuries we have suffered from the government of this country, and of the measures we have taken in order to obtain their redress. In doing this, we shall confine ourselves to a general description of those cases only which we conceive to be fairly of national cognizance, not being embarrassed with illicit trade or the least violation of the laws of this Province.

The most numerous class of sufferers consist of those who either in the United States, or some foreign ports, let our vessels to freight, to the subjects of his Catholic Majesty, to come here and load on their account, with the produce of this country. The Spanish subjects thus freight, these vessels possessed either generally, as importers of negroes or specially by Royal Letters Patent, the privilege of shipping the produce of this country in foreign bottoms. It was with the knowledge of this privilege, and with the full expectation that the Spanish government possessed too much faith, wantonly to revoke it, or to impede its free enjoyment, that we let our vessels to freight in the manner above mentioned. Sad experience has however taught us, that this expectation was ill founded, for, after our having been detained here for months beyond what was reasonable or necessary, those who freighted the vessels have not been allowed to load them, according to their stipulations with us, and by the aforementioned privilege they had a right to do. Encouraged by this example of injustice, on the part of the government these individuals have in their turn, ventured to sport with the solemnity of contracts, and wherever the rate of demurrage, reserved by Charter Party, bears any just proportion to the injury occasioned by delay, there they dishonorably refuse to pay. Thus between the tyranny of the government, and the treachery of the individuals, we are compelled to remain here and behold our vessels rotting, without the least prospect of indemnity.

Another class of sufferers, but nearly resembling those already mentioned, consists of such as having sold their vessels to Spanish agents in the United States, undertook the delivery of them, and agreed to receive the purchase money in these ports. This right, which Spanish subjects here possess, is derived like their right of freightage, either from the general privilege ceded to the introducers of negroes into this colony, or from the special license of the King.

The agents who purchased our vessels took good care to induce our confidence by exhibiting to us their evidence of this right, and we, like our defrauded countrymen above mentioned, came here, with the most perfect reliance on the honor of the government and the honesty of its contracting subjects, but like them, we have been disappointed. Some of our vessels of this description, have now been above seven months in these ports, the government unrighteously refusing or delaying the sanction of the transfer, and the individuals basely availing themselves of this iniquity of their rulers, for a pretext to refuse payment. Hence we find ourselves among inhospitable strangers, with vessels which their bad faith has turned on our hands; without funds sufficient even to preserve these vessels in repair.

All the vessels comprised in both the foregoing clauses came here bona fide in ballast, and we do not know that the government here has any suspicion to the contrary.

There is however, a third class of sufferers, who have reason perhaps still more acutely to feel their wrongs, these are such as found themselves in the ports of the Brazils immediately after the commencement of hostilities between Portugal and Spain, it was then that the persons and property of Spanish subjects in these ports were menaced with arrest and imprisonment, with seizure and confiscation, and it was at this perilous crisis that our countrymen were induced to relinquish their more lucrative pursuits, and to rescue these persons and their property from the mischiefs with which they were threatened. This was certainly an action which gave our countrymen a right to expect on their arrival here, if not a cordial and friendly welcome at least protection and justice. Instead of this, however, they have been affronted with illiberal surmises, perplexed by vexations, prosecutions, and oppressed and ruined by detention. More than a year has now elapsed since some of them have been waiting here for the fulfilment of their contracts while government has slept between the parties, and prevented what it was its duty to have enforced.

There is a fourth class of sufferers who, although few in number, find their embarrassments here equally ruinous. These are such as in the prosecution of long voyages in the Indian or Pacific Oceans, were forced by necessity, into this river for supplies, and while there waiting in hopes of hospitality, were encountered and taken possession of by cruisers in the service of this government. These vessels with their cargoes, which are valuable, have been taken from their rightful owners, without any specific cause being alleged therefor, by those concerned in the depredation. No charge is exhibited against which we can direct a defence, but the whole process is conducted in a dark and mysterious manner, and we are left to conjecture the end in view, by the general bearings merely of the interrogatories of which they extort from us the answers.

These four classes comprise most of the cases arising from injuries done to our property; injuries, which we, with due deference apprehend are not only in violation of good faith; but in many respects of the laws of nations, and of the existing treaty between the United States and Spain.

You will find a particular statement of the vessels alluded to in these classes, in the inclosed paper, No. 1. The documents and peculiar circumstances of each case will be furnished by those therein immediately interested.

In addition to these injuries done the property, there are others still more humiliating, which have been inflicted on the persons of American citizens. We have seen our fellow citizens thrust into loathsome prisons, where disease and chagrin have impaired their constitutions; where every species of villains, which swarm in the corruption of a rotten state, have been their bed and board companions, and were the torn and mangled members of executed felons, have been scattered among them, to increase their disgust and horror. Yet, no crime has been alleged against those unhappy sufferers—no cause assigned for their commitment, and no motives can be conjectured for such barbarous treatment, of men habituated to law and liberty from their infancy, than the mere love of oppression, or the hope to torture them into the confession of some imaginary guilt, or to betray or falsely criminate those who have entrusted and employed them.

We are indeed all treated as the members of a weak and contemptible nation, which has neither the means nor the spirit to protect us. Our government is the sneer and scoff of those in authority here, and our flag has been ignominiously hoisted with the Union downward on board a King's frigate, while those of others (even of petty nations) have been displayed with honor.

To obtain redress for these injuries, we have given our frequent personal attendance on this government. We have endeavored to move it by individual supplication and to rouse it by general remonstrance; but to no effect. The inclosed paper, No. 2, is a copy of a remonstrance, which we presented now more than two months since, and which, with all our applications have been passed over with the most mortifying silence.—Since then we have thought it prudent to address the American minister at Madrid; a copy whereof, No. 3, you will receive herein.

Such are the injuries we have suffered, and are still suffering here, and such are the measures we have heretofore pursued, in order to obtain their redress. But worn down by the persevering injustice of this government. Deeply wounded by what we conceive a wanton and arbitrary violation of our right, we feel at length compelled to fly for protection to the government of our own country. It is there we expect to find the prompt and powerful guardians of these rights, and it is there we look with filial confidence for their vindications.

In this address to you, we have endeavored to employ the manly language of the injured citizens of a great and independent nation. If it may now and then have appeared too bold, we trust you will impute it to those uncontrollable feelings, excited by our wrongs. We have aimed at nothing more than the discharge of a duty, which we conceive we owed to ourselves, to our employers, and our country. Believing as we do, that the interest and dignity of the Republic is deeply concerned in ensuring a just and honorable treatment to its citizens in foreign countries. You will please to accept our best wishes for your personal health and happiness, and believe us to be with the most profound respect, &c. &c.

In the city of the most Holy Trinity, Port of St. Mary of Buenos Ayres, 10th June, 1802, being in deliberation in their usual Royal Chamber of Justice Senor, Don Benito de la Mala Linares, Knight of the Royal and distinguished Spanish Order of Charles 3d. Don Sebastian de Velasco, Don Francisco Thomas de Anzoategui, Don Francisco Garafa, and Don Toachim Bernardo de Campuzano, Regent and C. doies of this Pretorial Audience: Having under consideration the proceedings had in council, passed to them by his Excellency the Vice Roy, relative to foreign vessels freighted to export produce and hides for the amount of slaves imported, agreeable to the Royal Order of 1791, and all other matter of said proceedings, gave their respective opinions; which his Excellency having considered, agrees with, by decreeing that those interested in the affreightment of foreign vessels, and whose entry the Fiscall opposes in his official capacity, as not having special Royal permissions, have no right to be admitted under their charter parties, nor to export in them, as the proceeds of slaves, hides or produce to the injury of the preferable charter parties of the Spanish vessels now here or have arrived in consequence of the peace.

With regard to the existing doubt whether they ought or not, to be permitted to load; that solely with a view to the good faith alleged by foreigners, together with the interpretations of some Royal Orders less decisive, and some instances of permission granted by his immediate predecessor, permission will be granted, by way of equity to those vessels which have been three or more months in port, pending these proceedings, the freight of the Spanish vessels being agreed upon and complete, at the expiration of two months which I assign them, may export the surplus of hides and produce, on account of the importers of negroes, proof being previously given of being the proceeds thereof.

That in this determination or favor only shall be included, such Foreign vessels which shall be proved to have come in Ballast, without including those, which under the pretext of exporting produce, have brought cargoes of more or less value, affording cause of the proceedings, which have been commenced against them and which the Fiscall ought to haften to a conclusion. Nor those vessels exceeding the number of Tons prescribed by the Royal Order of the 24 Nov. 1791.*

That the proceeding benign determination to load this surplus is not to extend to those foreign vessels which may hereafter arrive without special royal permissions, for, from the circumstance of not producing them, on the instant of their arrival, they shall be excluded, with only such succour as may be absolutely necessary. An order shall be forwarded to this effect to the Governor Sub-delegate of Monte Video & commanding officer of Ensenada.

And lastly, That with respect to what is determined in this deliberation, there shall not be any application or memorial till the determination of his Majesty, (to whom an account will be transmitted with the necessary proofs, for his Royal approbation or determination) as to what may be his Sovereign Pleasure. That a copy of this be served on the Consulado for their government.

* The Order here alluded to is one for regulating the Slave Trade, and which prohibits the importation of goods or produce of any description, in the same vessel with Slaves, &c. limits the vessels to be employed to 500 tons—but says nothing as to the exportation of the produce.

ly filled with the arrangements making in the various states to put in execution the stipulations of the late treaties of peace.
By the treaty of Amiens more places are to change matters than are readily recol lected by our best informed Quidnuncs.
By that treaty the English were to restore the following conquests made from France viz. The islands of Tobago, Martinico, and St. Lucia, in the West-Indies. The islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, near Newfoundland. Pondicherry, &c. in the East Indies. Foul Point on the island of Madagascar. Isles of Goree, on the coast of Africa:—And Isles of St. Marcou, on the coast of France. To the Batavian re public, the was to cede Malacca, in the East Indies, with its dependencies. The colony at the Cape of Good Hope. Is lands of Amboyna, Bunda, and Ternate, in the East Indies.

Colonies of Demerara, Essequibo, Ber bice, and Surinam; and Island of Curra coa, in the W. Indies. To Spain the was to cede the island of Minorca, in the Me diterranean sea. Of all her conquests she only retains the Spanish island of Trina dad, in the West-Indies; and Trincomalee, Columbo, and all the Dutch settle ments in the island of Ceylon, in the East Indies. She however retains all the ships of war taken during the war, amounting to 86 sail of the line, 2 fifty gun ships, 194 frigates and 234 sloops of war, &c.
—making in all 570 ships, mounting 15,934 guns. It is the boast of England, that at the close of the war, none of the powers combined with France, held a foot of her territory.

Alexandria Advertiser.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in St.
Mary's, to his friend in Savannah, dat ed 11th Sept.

"I returned yesterday from East Flo rida, where I got official information that a treaty has taken place in August last, between the Spanish government and the Greek Indians, viz. those that the rene gado Bowles had influence over.

"They have given up all the white prisoners and negroes that had been taken.
Bowles has cleared out with his associates privately; his companions were two fel lows who fled from justice in the states: William Harris, a tall fellow with a piece bit off his nose, well known in that state as a horse thief—the other, William M' Girth, a likely young man, who made his escape from near Augusta for the above offence.

"A Nassau, (New Providence) pirate was taken at the Appalachee inlet, with supplies for Bowles on board: the pirate's name is Johnston, son of the notorious George Johnston: there are a number of American captains who know him to their forrow."

A Letter from New-Orleans, dated Sept. 13, says:—"We have nothing particularly new here. Our last advices from Spain were by the May packet, which brought the official account of peace, but no orders for its publication.

The intendant of the Province intends closing this port, and has communicated his views to the Governor. If the latter agrees to the measure, it will be immedi ately executed; otherwise there may be some delay. It is rumoured that the Go vernor intends to oppose the measure until the publication of the peace. These things I mention, as interesting to your commercial friends.—This place enjoys the most perfect health."

From the VIRGINIA HERALD.

To Mr. AUG. DAVIS, Richmond.
SIR,

Wishing that the public may have eve ry possible opportunity of correct data, to judge for themselves on a subject so novel, and so interesting to the feelings of the American people, as the correspondence between Messrs. Jefferson and Callender, I take the liberty, thus publicly, to desire your patience to answer through the same medium, the press, the questions at foot.

Callender, in his remarks preceding two famous letters of the president, says, that "the original letters are lodged in the office of your Gazette." My first re quest is, sir, to know if you are acquaint ed with the hand writing of Mr. Jeffe rson, and whether you consider the one bearing his signature, as being authentic?
Has any gentleman, beside yourself, seen those letters, who was also acquainted with the hand writing? Is the one without the signature in the same hand writing as that which is signed? And have you been at the pains to compare those originals with the letters published by Callender?

The object of the above enquiries you will readily perceive, and, I presume, will ask no apology for. As a public ser vant (for such the editor of a public paper must be considered) I hold you bound, under your own discretion, to throw all the light on this subject you can. Should you see proper to answer the above, you will much oblige me and the public.

CORRESPONDUS.

Fredericksburg, Oct. 11, 1802.

ANSWER TO CORRESPONDUS.

SIR,

An anxious and laudable desire to ob tain the earliest information respecting the extraordinary correspondence between our president and James Thomson Callender, which has now appeared in most of the public prints in America, has, I presume, suggested to you the above Queries ad dressed to me in the Virginia Herald of the 12th instant.

In answer to the 1st and 2d, which re quire to know whether I myself am ac quainted with the hand writing of Mr.
Jefferson, and whether any other persons acquainted with Mr. Jefferson's hand wri ting have seen the letters, I hereby declare that I am perfectly acquainted with the hand writing, and that several respectable characters, who have called on me for an examination of the letters, and who are also acquainted with Mr. Jefferson's hand writing, assert the letters deposited in my hands by Mr. Callender to have been written by Thomas Jefferson, the president of the United States.

In answer to the 3d and 4th Queries propoted by you, I declare that the letter without the signature to be the same hand writing as that which is signed; and that I have carefully compared the original letters with the printed ones in the Re corder, and find them to be precisely the same, except in one word, which appears to be an error in printing the word mani fests for manifesto. A. DAVIS.

The following copy of a letter from Gen.
Washington to Alexander Addison, Esq. of Pennsylvania, President of the Court of Common Pleas for the fifth circuit of that state, so unequivocally conveys the opinion of the first man Amer ica ever produced, respecting the par ty now in power, that it merits uni versal attention and remembrance.

MOUNT VERNON, March 4, 1799.

Sir,

Your favor of the 31st January, en closing your Charge to the Grand Jury, of the County Court of the Fifth Circuit of the State of Pennsylvania, at the last December Sessions has been duly received, and for the enclosure I thank you.

I wish, sincerely, that your good ex ample in endeavoring to bring the people of these United States more acquainted with the laws and principles of their go vernment, was followed. They only re quire a proper understanding of these to judge rightly on all great national ques tions; but unfortunately infinitely more pains is taken to blind them by one descrip tion of men, than there is to open their eyes by the other, which, in my opinion is THE SOURCE OF MOST OF THE EVILS WE LABOR UNDER.

With very great esteem,

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

G. WASHINGTON.
Alexander Addison, Esq.

GUADALOUPE.

The disturbances in this devoted island seem not to have diminished. The mor tality amongst the French troops inspires the rebels with new vigor. General Ri chepanse died the 3d of September, and daily ravages are made among the fol diers.

Stratagem seems to be the forte of the blacks; for we are told, by a person of information, recently from Guadaloupe, that the black general sent down articles of capitulation to General Richepanse, previous to his death, specifying that he would surrender on condition that he would allow him a certain sum of money, provisions and a fleet sufficient to transport him and his army (about 20,000) to Ame rica, where they had an idea they could land. The articles were acceded to, and the provisions delivered, but no sooner was this done than the contract was at an end, and the negro general profited by the ducity he had practiced!

EXHIBITION

THIS EVENING,

At the SPREAD EAGLE Ball Room.

John Rannie,

Respectfully informs the Ladies and Gentle men of Alexandria and its vicinity, that for a short time only he has it in his pow er to display his to the inhabitants of this city.

Act I. Mr. Rannie will exhibit a great variety of astonishing ARTS and EXPE RIMENTS and real power of attraction by the Magical Sword.

This part of the performance in former days was called

WITCHCRAFT,

And having convince with familiar Spi rits, but Mr. Rannie will clearly de monstrate and shew the explanations of those Stratagems in such a manner that the audience is capable of giving an ex planation against all false reports which has universally alarmed the world. All is deception and experiments.

Act II. New arts of a ballance master.

Act III. The singular and real power of

VENTRILLOQUISM

this extraordinary gift which cannot be acquired, has been allowed amongst the enlightened characters to be very miraculous curiosity. We have no accounts of any VENTRILLOQUISTS, but three since the woman of Endor, which in former days was called a real Witch.

Act IV. Most wonderful imitations of various BIRDS AND BEASTS. Mr. R. by his powers to this day, has caused people to throw away their dead pigs, and fish, and caused men to unload cart loads of hay, supposing that they heard the voice of a child smothering among the hay.

Mr. Rannie creditably informs the pub lic, that if it was not in an age and in a country less enlightened, he doubts not but great part of his performance would be counted super-natural but perhaps neither nature, nor art, may produce the like again in several centuries.

Doors to be opened at 6 o'clock and the Performance to begin at 7.—Tickets to be had at the place of Performance.

No Segars to be smoked in the room.
